„ I alone cannot change the world but I can cast a stone across the waters to create many ripples” Mother Teresa

Can anybody change the world alone?

My first answer would be that he can't but when I start thinking about it I can find a lot of people who influence the world deeply. It isn't always easy to talk to people because they often don't listen. You have to be brave to discuss ideas which aren't acceptable by people in general.

The first example of a person who changed the history of the world is Lech Wałęsa. He used to be an ordinary electrician but his personality and modesty made him popular among other workers. They made him their leader. He united them around his idea of solidarity. His brave actions turned out to be the stone thrown into the lake of political changes.

The next example is Mother Teresa. She believed that looking after sick and disabled people is sense of her life. Her sacrifice and devotion to this case made other people join her. As a result, people and organizations around the world started helping people in need more often. Many new charities were created.

They are the people who I respect and admire. Although they were ordinary people they changed the world.

I'd also like to be a stone and influence the shape of the word.
